Mission Statement

At present, Chang Jung Christian University has five major colleges: Management; Health Science; Humanities and Social Sciences; Information and Engineering and School of Theology, along with one doctoral program, seventeen masters programs, thirty-five bachelor programs, nine research centers and three teaching and learning centers. We will set up more bachelor and master programs with distinguishing features and provide channels for advanced education, hoping to cultivate talented students with broad knowledge, universal love and the ideals of justice and service. Chang Jung Christian University follows the historical traditions and culture of the Taiwan Presbyterian Church, continuing the British Presbyterian mission, which includes devotion to God, the opening of minds and the establishment of schools. A morality based on justice, fraternity and love focuses on the principles of democracy and freedom, the spread of creative thinking, the development of an international perspective, and the promotion of a holistic education which strengthens body, mind and spirit while affirming the value and dignity of life. Our sacred calling is to carry on the traditions of the past while opening a path to the future, and we are committed to the cultivation of higher educational talents in the 21st century, accomplishing the vision and the mission of CJCU. We desire to establish a campus with a free, democratic, diversified and open-minded atmosphere, setting individuals on the path of life-long education. We hope to train outstanding youth who can think and question, and are creative and forward looking in the fields of management science, public health, medical care and information technology. They are expected to be modern citizens imbued with the ideals of fraternity, justice, service and devotion. We believe that, with God's help, we can fruitfully pursue the ideal of holistic education.
