Payap University, Thailand

Message from the ACUCA President

Greetings from the ACUCA Secretariat at Payap University in Chiang Mai, Thailand! I am pleased to address all ACUCA members in this biannual ACUCA Newsletter.

Firstly, I would like to thank the outgoing ACUCA and Payap University President, Dr. Sompan Wongdee. Dr. Wongdee recently retired, effective 31 July, 2017. However, she continued to perform her duties as ACUCA President up until the ACUCA Management Conference (MC) which was held on the campus of Payap University from 19-21 October, 2017. The enormously successful ACUCA MC was testimony to not only her dedication, but the entire Payap faculty, staff, and students, as well as the many ACUCA members, who participated.

Speaking of the ACUCA MC, I was tremendously pleased to have met the many representatives of our ACUCA membership. It brings us great joy to organize such an event for the benefit of our diverse members and see directly the fruits of our labor. The theme of the conference was "Exploring the Relationship of Religion, Culture, and Peace in Christian Higher Education" and we were blessed to be able to share and discuss this topic with academicians from all over the region. For more information about the conference, please see other articles in this Newsletter or visit <http://www.acuca.net/management-conference/2017-conference/>.

I do want to mention that we at Payap University take very seriously our responsibility as ACUCA President and Secretariat. ACUCA is a unique network of institutions that share a common bond which is our Christian heritage. The mission of the ACUCA Secretariat is to bring together this community of Christian institutions of higher learning in Asia so that we can all work to benefit one another as well as the societies in which we exist. The ACUCA Secretariat, therefore, is the "instrumentality for creating the environmental prerequisites for active interaction and participation among the member-institutions to take place." We intend to diligently continue this work for the remainder of our time as ACUCA President and Secretariat.

Lastly, I would like to take this opportunity to announce our upcoming ACUCA event. Please join us for the Biennial General Assembly and Conference during the period October 11-14, 2018, to be held at Christian University, Nakorn Pathom, Thailand. The theme for this event is "Internet Impact on Character and Identity in Christian Higher Education in Asia." We will also have a concurrent student camp from October 10-14. The Call for Papers will be coming soon!

Regards,

Rux Prompalit, Ph.D.

PONTIFICAL COUNCIL FOR CULTURE PLENARY ASSEMBLY Vatican, November 15-18, 2017

“The Future of Humanity, New Challenges to Anthropology”

As a Consultor to the Pontifical Council for Culture from Thailand, Glen Chatelier attended and participated in the plenary on “The Future of Humanity, New Challenges to Anthropology” organized at the Jesuit Curia, The Vatican. Challenging and engaging the participants from all the five continents, including philosophers, sociologists, theologians, experts on bioethics, genetics, cyber technology, the plenary keynote speakers challenged the participants to look at dialogs, interconnections and trajectories in technologies to internalize, debate and more importantly enter into dialogs of engagements between all the seemingly polemic dialectics between science and humanities to “think out of the box” and to move towards harmonizing emergent trends and sciences for the betterment of humankind.

The plenary concluded on the high note of a Keystone address by His Holiness Pope Francis at The Palace of the Vatican, on November 18, 2018 when His Holiness urged all the participants to combine elements of faith and reason, research and debate to help enrich human living, not desecrate it.

At an audience with His Holiness The Pope, Glen Chatelier presented to him, a copy of a newly released book of his poems titled, “SADUDEE MAHARACHA” recounting the nobility of the late King Bhumibol Adulyadej’s work and sacrifice for the Thai people who loved him as Father.

HKBU Strategic Plan lays out goals and path of becoming a leading liberal arts University in Asia for the world

Hong Kong Baptist University (HKBU) announced its Institutional Strategic Plan (ISP) 2018-2028 of turning itself into a leading, research-led, liberal arts University in Asia for the world delivering academic excellence in a caring, creative and global culture. HKBU is also launching the Talent100 scheme with the aim of recruiting 100 new academic staff globally over the next three to five years to strengthen teaching and research.

President Professor Roland Chin said, "The ISP 2018-2028 is a defining expression of HKBU's collective aspiration and at the same time a clear plan of action to achieve the aspiration, grounded in HKBU's Caring, Creative and Global DNAs. The ISP, which was approved by the University Council after in-depth discussions and thorough consultations with stakeholders, sets out a comprehensive list of goals that will both re-dedicate HKBU to its historic mission and transform the institution over the next 10 years."

To fulfil the University's aspirations, energy and resources will be channeled into the three strategic priorities. The first one is to deliver the best student experience in Hong Kong by emphasising integrity, creativity, communication, employability, and commitment to the common good of humankind. This is to be achieved by enhancing and enriching students' learning both on- and off-campus. Secondly, teaching and research excellence at HKBU will extend the frontiers of knowledge and tackle global challenges. The University will raise the bar of excellence by conducting world-leading research in three overarching institutional research clusters that have been identified:

- Creative Media and Practice. This covers areas in which HKBU has gained a reputation as pioneers and leaders..
- Health and Drug Discovery. HKBU has contributed to the solution of global problems, most notably in the field of healthcare.
- Data Analytics and Artificial Intelligence in applications such as Fintech, data-journalism and digital humanities.

The third priority is capacity. HKBU will continue investing in its most valuable resource — its people. The objective in this area is to sustain academic and research excellence through appropriate investments in people, governance, and facilities, as well as building capacity through schemes such as Talent100.

Soochow Celebrates 500th Anniversary of Protestant Reformation

Do you know how far Soochow University's motto can be traced back? It all began half a millennium ago when Martin Luther started the Protestant Reformation, and its impact on the University find expression in many ways. SCU marked the 500th Anniversary of this influential historical event with a grand celebration in commemoration of Martin Luther 27 October to 6 November 2017.

Jointly held by SCU's Chaplain's Office, the Library, the Department of Music, the Bible Society from the Department of German Language and Culture, and Goethe-Institut, the celebration included a memorial exhibition, a symposium, and a concert that helped SCU students, faculty, staff and alumni gain a better understanding of the breadth of Martin Luther's impact on diverse spheres, especially on SCU.

The opening ceremony on October 27th was joined by distinguished guests including Board Director Song-Chang Tang, SCU President Wei-Ta Pan, Vice President Pao-Cheng Dung, Pastor Jian-Zong Chen of The Methodist Church, Pastor Cheng-Dao Xu, Chairman of Bible Society, and Tai-Yin Yang, Chairwoman of Board of Deacons at Christian Church.

President Pan praised Martin Luther as a distinguished monk whose far-reaching implications of the Protestant Reformation led to the establishment of SCU, one of thirteen universities started by Protestants in China at the end of the nineteenth century. Even more closely relevant is the school's motto "Unto a Full-grown Man," which came from the New Testament. Pan emphasized that the act of one person may seem insignificant but could change the world - the philosophy and spirit SCU tries to impart and encourage students to learn and to carry on.

The Protestant Reformation bequeathed to the world ideals that are still relevant today; plurality in society, freedom of conscience, freedom of religion, literacy, universal education, and the rise of rationalism and science.

The Year 2017 is a significant milestone in human history as it marks the 500th anniversary of Martin Luther's religious reformation – a time for people to look back on history and introspect. May the world continue to carry forward the spirit of the Reformation, stride ahead with dauntless heart, and embrace challenges with no fear!

Commemoration of Martin Luther on Soochow University campus began with posting of the "95 Theses", 27 October 2017

Report: ACUCA Management Conference 2017 October 19-22, 2017

“Exploring the Relationship of Religion, Culture and Peace in Christian Higher Education”

About 60 ACUCA participants from member institutions joined 15 full-time participants and staff from Payap University in this year's Management Conference at Payap University in Chiang Mai, Thailand. The conference organizers proposed the theme, “Exploring the Relationship of Religion, Culture and Peace in Christian Higher Education,” which is a focus developed in several ways at Payap University. Organization of the conference was undertaken jointly by the ACUCA executive committee, a conference taskforce of Payap University, Payap's Institute for Religion, Culture and Peace (IRCP), and the Christian Communications Institute (CCI) of Payap. Housing for conference participants was arranged at the Empress Hotel and Conference Center in Chiang Mai. The United Board for Christian Higher Education in Asia provided scholarships for 10 participants, and sent three staff members to observe and participate.

As participants arrived, there was a welcome dinner at the hotel on Thursday evening, October 19. The conference theme was introduced right away with performances by the CCI which used Thai cultural forms to convey a warm Christian welcome to participants from Japan, South Korea, Taiwan, Hong Kong, Philippines, Indonesia and India.

The conference was opened formally with worship in the Henry Luce Chapel on Payap's main campus on Friday morning. Worship services for the conference were led by Dr. Sathanun Boonyakiat, Dean of the McGilvary College of Divinity of Payap University, assisted by musicians from the seminary and the College of Music. Dr. Amnuay Tapingkae, former President of Payap, one of the founders of ACUCA and a former President of the association, brought a homily that reflected on the unique tasks of Christian higher education. Dr. Sompan Wongdee, immediate Past-president of Payap, and President of ACUCA greeted the participants, and then Dr. Rux Prompalit, current president of Payap welcomed everyone.

The conference program continued with a keynote address by Dr. Suchart Setthamalee, head of Payap University's Department of Peace Studies (PhD program) in which he told movingly of “My Journey to the Road of Violence and Peacebuilding in Islam.” His timely emphasis was on how peace and non-violence are essential to Islam, and how he has found ways to promote those in Thailand.

The morning ended with a change of pace presentation by the Revs Allan and Joan Eubank and performers of the CCI directed by Suchinda Chaiaunsarakorn. Allan told how he had discovered ways to overcome resistance to traditional Thai folk arts, and how, for more than 30 years, Thai Folk Melodrama has been used to tell stories from the Bible. CCI then performed 3 scenes from their rendition of “The Story of the Prodigal Daughter.”

Throughout the afternoon, conference participants attended parallel sessions in which 14 presentations were made on observations and research conclusions about “Christian Higher Education” (how Christians are doing it), and “The Vital Role of Christian Educators in Multi-Religious Societies” (mostly about the roles of teachers and chaplains in promoting peace and mutual appreciation). The presentations were followed by short periods of questions and answers and the full papers were printed in the conference “Program and Proceedings” book.

The program on Saturday, October 21, began with a choral service of morning prayers led by the McGilvary College of Divinity choir. Four IRCP reporters then summarized the things they had heard from each of the four parallel sessions so that the salient ideas would be brought to everyone's attention.

After a refreshment break, participants from each country met with their colleagues to decide how to disseminate the values of the conference back in their home universities.

The 2017 conference ended with a report by the Rev. Dr. Esther Wakeman, General Secretary of ACUCA about new member institutions, the Student Mobility Scheme, and plans for the coming ACUCA General Assembly and Student Camp to be held in 2018, a year from now hosted by Christian University of Thailand. A closing worship service was the last formal event of the management conference.

After lunch, many of the delegates took a tour of Chiang Mai before heading back home from the Chiang Mai International Airport.

The Embassy of Japan has formally turned over to St. Paul University Philippines (SPUP), on Aug. 14, 2017, the Clean and Green Non-Wood Charcoal Briquetting Facilities, it has funded, through the Grant Assistance for Grassroots Human Security Projects (GGP-EOJ).

Mr. Kenji Terada, First Secretary and Agriculture Attaché, Embassy of Japan, ceremonially bequeathed the Symbolic Key of said facilities to Sr. Merceditas Ang, SPC, SPUP President, in the presence of representatives from the Embassy of Japan, St. Paul University Philippines, Municipality of San Jose, Baggao, Cagayan Valley, and the beneficiaries of said project.

The turn-over ceremony was held at the Science Agri-Based Entrepreneurial High School (SABEHS), an agri-business high school, under St. Paul University, located in San Jose, Baggao, Cagayan Valley, where the charcoal briquetting facilities have been set up. The SABEHS students are involved in the production of the green charcoal production, as part of their training.

Mr. Kenji Terada, turning over the Charcoal Briquetting Facilities to Sr. Merceditas Ang, St. Paul University Philippines.

The Clean and Green Non-Wood Charcoal Project started in 2011, initiated by Ms. Perla Manapol, SPUP Adviser on Clean and Green Energy, based in USA. The project consists in the production of non-wood-sourced cooking fuel, the "green charcoal" coming from corn cobs that are carbonized with corn paste, poured into a briquette molder to produce briquettes, as non-wood, alternative cooking fuel. The charcoal briquettes are economical, environment-friendly, affordable to low-income households.

For mass production of the briquette-charcoals, Ms. Manapol was able to secure funding from the Grants for Grassroots and Human Security Project from the Embassy of Japan (GGP-EOJ), consisting of the following facilities: 1) grinding machine to carbonize corn cobs; 2) charcoal fines mixer to produce charcoal briquettes; 3) charcoal briquettes; 4) Elf-Truck for hauling raw materials, and for delivery of charcoal-finished products, and 5) concrete one-story building to house the charcoal briquetting facilities.

The ASEACCU 25th Conference on “Catholic Universities and Inclusive Education: Transforming Spaces, Promoting Practices, Changing Minds”

Assumption University of Thailand hosted the ASEACCU 25th Conference on “Catholic Universities and Inclusive Education: Transforming Spaces, Promoting Practices, Changing Minds,” between August 21 and 27, 2017 at the Suvaranbhumi campus.

The student camp for seventy four students from ASEACCU institutions, commenced on the evening of August 21, 2017 with dinner and icebreaking activities.

On August 22, 2017 the student campers visited the Father Ray Foundation on the outskirts of Pattaya city, Chonburi province to gain a firsthand exposure to the spaces and practices carried out by the Redemptorist mission for physically handicapped and specially challenged children who are typically abandoned by parents who are either too poor or ashamed to care for such children. A student participant, moved to tears admitted that she was challenged as never before to reach out and understand the children at the Father Ray Foundation, while another student conceded that she saw the kids as energetic and talented, irrespective of their physical or mental limitations. The expert lecture given by Prof. Wiriya Namsiripongpan at the King Solomon student activities room at the Suvaranbhumi campus, the morning of August 23, 2017 clearly proved to the students that human faculty limitations has nothing to do with confidence and optimism in life. The post-lunch session on August 23, 2017 was a half day workshop with nine volunteer students simulating either physical or mental challenges, being led on a campus tour, aided and facilitated by groups of student campers. The camp activity on August 24, 2017 morning involved a workshop session on conceptualizing the student presentations for August 26, 2017 using the “Tree of Life” conceptual construct.

The student campers joined the Presidents and staff from their respective institutions for the Conference activities on August 24, 25 and 26, 2017. The conference itself ended with a lively session “reflections and conversations with students” at which the students shone forth in brilliance and vivacity with their presentations at 11 am on August 26, 2017. The outcome from the student camp was an innovative social media campaign to show solidarity with less gifted students.

The second major activity of the 25th Conference was the first ever Campus Ministry workshop. The campus ministers, 31 in all from ASEACCU member institutions were hosted to vivacious and thought-provoking sharing motivated by Rev. Brother Amnuay Yoonprayong. Most certainly, networking resulted from open and committed sharing among all the campus ministers at the workshop.

The ASEACCU Executive Board met on the morning of August 24, 2017 at the Brother Martin’s Collection, the Cathedral of Learning, Assumption University Suvaranbhumi campus, to follow up on matters discussed at the April 24-26, 2017 Executive Board meeting at Boracay Island, and to pre-view arrangements for the 25th ASEACCU Conference.

Organized with the theme “Catholic Universities and Inclusive Education: Transforming Spaces, Promoting Practices, Changing Minds,” the 25th ASEACCU Conference, began with a solemn Holy Eucharistic Con-celebration presided over by Rev. Fr. Herminio Dagohoy,

O.P. Rector Magnificus of the University of Santo Tomas, Manila, the Philippines and Executive Secretary of ASEACCU at the ornate Chapel of St. Louis Marie de Montfort. The Assumption University Chorus Group rendered resplendent hymns at the Mass. The Holy Mass was followed by a brief conference opening and awards ceremony honoring the ASEACCU Founding institutions – Fu Jen University, Taiwan, Nanzan University, Nagoya, Japan, Ateneo de Manila University, the Philippines and Assumption University of Thailand. The opening dinner was held at the Foyer of the John XXIII Conference Center and featured a Thai classical dance and light music courtesy of the Assumption University Faculty of Music. The second day of the conference, August 25, 2017, was launched with the con-celebration of the Holy Eucharist presided over by Bishop Siripong Silvio Charatsri, representing the Catholic Bishops Conference of Thailand. Prayers were offered for the repose of the Soul of Rev. Fr. Daniel Ross, the prime motivator for the setting up of ASEACCU, who has passed away in July 2017 in Taiwan. The two keynote sessions were indeed thought provoking with Rev. Fr. Joseph Maier and Professor Dr. Dianne Chambers illustrated the definition of Inclusive Education through her vast and unenviable research and workshop experiences in Australia and across Asia. The afternoon sessions of the conference involved resource presentations from Sophia University, Japan and The Catholic University of South Korea, Seoul. At the ASEACCU Business meeting the minutes of the report for 2016-2017 ASEACCU Activities was considered, accounts presented and the proposals to the ASEACCU Bye Laws were vetted. Assumption University (through Rev. Brother Prathip Martin Komolmas and Glen Chatelier) contributed a token amount of US $ 100 to set up the Daniel Ross ASEACCU Research Fund for the Support of Research in Social Sciences among the ASEACCU members. At the evening dinner, a multicultural display of talents among students and professors redefined ASEACCU as God’s one family built through the diversity of cultures, customs and traditions. The third day of the conference got off to a start with a Holy Mass concelebrated by Rev. Brother Amnuay Yoonprayong and priests from ASEACCU member institutions. The morning resource presentations were equally informative about the implementations of Inclusive Education agendas in the LaSalle Benilde Philippines and the Atma Jaya University, Jakarta, Indonesia. The cultural components of the conference involved a visit to the Ananta Samakhom Throne Hall in the heart of Bangkok city where Faculty, staff and students experienced some the finest and decorative of Thai Royal artifacts. The Siam Niramit dinner and cultural extravaganza was indeed a fitting way for the conference to come to a close. The 25th ASEACCU Conference proved to be one in which the largest number of participants attended, and included an observer from the Church in Myanmar courtesy of the goodwill of His Eminence Cardinal Charles Muang Bo. In all ninety nine faculty and staff, thirty one campus ministers and seventy four students from forty seven institutions in nine countries, attended the conference which indeed turned out to be memorable.

Soochow Ultra-marathon Reaches New Heights

Seven Runners Qualifying the Event for IAU Gold Label Marathon

On December 2nd and 3rd, 2017, the world renowned Soochow International 24hr Ultra-marathon entered its 17th and best year, with seven ultra-runners completing outstanding records, qualifying the event for IAU Gold Label Marathon, the third time since the race first began in 1999, and the only one so far in the world to be awarded such honor in 2017.

Former ROC President Ma Ying-Jeou recounted his participation in the Soochow Ultra-marathons since 1999. He quoted Yiqi Mei, former President of National Tsing Hua University, "what a university needs is not great buildings, but great people", to explain how Soochow managed to put on such a large scale event despite the small campus. He found it admirable and heartwarming that everyone worked so diligently to overcome hardships and make the event a success. Soochow University President Wei-Ta Pan added, "Every step in the preparation is a challenge in itself. But with the spirit of ultra-marathoners, we tried our best and kept moving forward." He shared his hope that people around the world will be able to witness this spirit in Soochow University faculty, and students as well.

A great start in the Soochow Ultra-marathon.

Soochow's Ultra-marathon Ambassador, "Ultra-marathon Mom" Shu-Jung Chiu, once named the fastest female runner in Asia, accompanied by President Ma and President Pan, walked the first lap of the 30 minute celebrity race to cheer on the runners. President Ma took part in the 30 minutes run for ALS patients to gather support, to encourage everybody to constantly challenge themselves, and to create meaning in life. Baseball stars from the ChinaTrust Brothers Club ran with Malaysian Cerebral Palsy runner Cheng Zhee Long. Visually-impaired Chinese major Po-Hung Shen ran the 30 minute race for the first time with two invited fellow visually-impaired students; Law major Shih-Peng Wang, and English major Shao-Ching Hsieh. They were the showcase of positive attitude toward life which touched and encouraged all the other runners.

Yoshihiko Ishikawa from Japan finished first with 266.938 kilometers. Toshiro Naraki, also from Japan, took second place with 261.605 kilometers. France's Stéphane Ruel came in third at 259.178 kilometers. Courtney Dauwalter from the USA was the champion in female race with 256.405km. The three together with Poland's Andrew Radzikowski 245.180km, Hungary's Tamas Rudolf 241.699km, as well as the UK's Dan Lawson 241.205km all completed more than 240 kilometers, enabling this year's race to Gold Label designation.

In order for a 24 hour ultra-marathon to qualify as a Gold Label Race under the International Association of Ultrarunners (IAU) guidelines, at least five runners have to meet the set criterion, which is at least 220 kilometers for those in the women's division and a minimum of 240 kilometers for those in the men's division. This year's Soochow Ultra-marathon breaks Gold Label Race records with six in the men's division and one in the women's division.
